IV. Documentation

4.1 Is there any written information available on your organisation's work within the combination of the three issues: indigenous peoples, gender, and natural resource management?
Yes No

Follow-up Questionnaire (Questionnaire no. 2) on Organisations' work/experience on Indigenous Peoples, Gender, and Natural Resource Management.

Those WWF offices that have answered our first questionnaire and accepted to provide further information if needed, are kindly asked to answer this second and last questionnaire focussing on more qualitative aspects of practical experiences with the interplay between Indigenous Peoples, Gender and Natural Resource Management.

I would be very grateful if you could take the time to complete the questionnaire by 31st of January, 2004

II. Qualitative Questions

In order to fully understand the available experiences with issues related to the interplay between Indigenous Peoples (IP), Gender and Natural Resource Management (NRM) and learn from them, I kindly ask you to answer the following questions:

Question 1. What are the constraints/problems in applying a women's perspective or a gender perspective in the work with IP and NRM both within IP communities/organisations, within your organisation's field staff and management staff as well as within governmental sectors?

a) within IP communities/organisations:

b) within Field and management staff:

c) within Governmental Sectors:

Question 2. What are the positive and negative lessons learned of your experience with IP, gender and NRM in terms of:

a) Organisational strategy and approach? (Are the definition of organisational strategies and approaches useful for promoting gender or women's aspects at the practical level in project/programme activities related to IP and NRM? In which way and why?)

b) Project/programme guidelines, methodology, techniques and tools? (Are they useful? Why? How? Please specify your experience and enclose copies if possible)

c) Training and capacity building?(Are gender training and capacity building of staff, counterparts, IP organisations, governments etc. useful? In what way and why? Please specify your experience.):

Question 3. According to your experience what are the characteristics and roles of IP men and women in the management and ownership of natural resources, that projects/programmes should respect and/or take into account?

a) Gender characteristics and roles in management of NR. (Do indigenous men and women relate differently to natural resources? How? Why? What are the consequences? Do indigenous men and women have different roles towards the management of natural resources? How? Why? What are the consequences?):

b) Gender characteristics and roles in ownership of NR. (Do indigenous men and women have the same access to ownership to natural resources? Please specify how, why and the consequences?):

Question 4. According to your experience what is the best way to secure gender/women's perspectives in activities related to IP and NRM? (What advice could you share with us with a view to secure both indigenous men's and women's knowledge, relationship to natural resources and involvement in NRM project/programmes?)

Answer:

Thank you very much for your collaboration!

Best regards,
Elisabeth Kiørboe, WWF-Denmark
